definition

The scope and authority of international law have thus expanded dramatically during the era of globalization. Historically, international law addressed only relations between states in certain limited areas (such as war and diplomacy) and was dependent on the sovereignty and territorial boundaries of distinct countries.

Because globalization has accelerated UN lost specific objectives of obligations and the UN now cant concentrate and expand its work in many countries because the scope of obligations has already become more widespread.

But this is not a reason for under law their obligations because the UN is an international organization ad supported by most of the powerful countries and especially by the security council so they have to concentrate on each country's needs to apply the obligations of human rights law as needed in these countries.

Introduction to the body of the thesis

Defining analytical positions and roles

I think it's essential for analyzing requirements in practice and procedure so that everyone speaks the same language.

UN should concentrate on Natural law also to concentrate on the specific need to combine all the laws in each country to accommodate the culture and individual way of life to be able to really fix their problems as Human International Law.

- DISCUSSION OF THE GOAL OF THE THESIS

Free Speech

The main problem is that the old fashion of regime considers free speech as an element to expose the government attitude in putting specific rules to keep the people now how to reconsiderations of changes to other people in the same community. And this case may result in threatening the government to be the top power authority in the county.

Gender Inequality

I think the two genders Men and women are not equal in all fields of life and they do the same duties to their community but take into consideration the body's strength difference between men and women, and that is a good thing.

Even when taking into consideration for height and weight differences between men and women. though this does not necessarily give a result that they are not equal to perform what is needed from both.

understand and value our similarities and our differences. If we are more conscious of our expectations we can also choose how we respond.

Homelessness

Homeless people are mostly unable to get safety and security for themselves and their families.

Homelessness is a big issue of consideration for improving the solution of the social problem in the world.

A lot of countries should supply homeless people with their essential needs of life like food and health insurance. This may be should come directly from local or international governments or other humanitarian organizations or donors.

Poverty

The United Nations (UN) made many international efforts by the wealthy nations to support and find some solutions for some of the sufferings in the poor countries and trying to reduce the poverty case in those countries. This is done in a few ways like providing the main materials which may be used in agriculture like seeds and providing medicine and doctors and sometimes helping in keeping their support at the lowest level to these poor people to survive in their countries.

I see when we concentrate on poverty in our studying of modern social problems solution of getting out of poverty is making sure everyone can have a job according to his physical strength, mental strength, academic background and to open like middle job opportunities in small skills just to make the poor people can make the low needed cost of their life. This is also a responsibility of the local government and international community after studying the culture and geographic nature of these poor countries using strategic organizations who can give full analysis about each country's needs. Also, Education is very important when trying to solve the problem of poverty, by providing more opportunities.

All of the above-mentioned elements are already in Syria because of the military conflict which started in 2011.

This considers a real subject to a contemporary social problem which all the nations should do their best to help Syria in a modern way to fix what the war did.

General Recommendations

I will present some advices:

I will present some advice for human international law study:

UN has to expand the elements of power from the security council to be able to do even in force what they have to do and mention again the human rights obligations in Syria.

summary

I would scope after my research and study for this subject on the following:

- the expansion that international law will reflect their self-interest, they will comply.
  - The fact that people view the law as social practice means that law is part of a whole bunch of practices that develop outside of the law- especially true in international law.
  - Wars sometimes demand some methods, even if the wars weren't caused by violations of international law.
- UN in the field of Human international law should expect a lot of various changes in the world according to what is happening in Syria, the Middle East, and Ukraine. They should use local strategic organizations to help them for supporting the UN with necessary data related to human law and open virtual offices even at a distance for trying to analyze the data and try to fix the problem in each country
